V. Interim Policies (Can be found here, on the Senate webpage under the Interim Policies Reviewed by Senate Exec tab)

- A. Wireless Communication Device Policy
- B. Digital Accessibility Policy

VI. First Reading (Can be found here, on the Senate webpage under the Policies for 1st Reading tab)

- A. Academic Distinction Policy: Tess Fosse, mainly a walk over policy from the old PRP.
- B. Final Exam Polic: Brooke Harlowe, (Professor Political Science, CU) tried to incorporate diversity for all final assessment types in this policy. Eric Hawrelak asked about having more than final exam in a day, will it be the professor's discretion and if the professor will be merciful? Mark Decker, (Professor, Department Chair, Languages, Literatures & Writing, CU) asked if a broader language could be used because languages don't have final exams. Brooke Harlowe responded that it says evaluative assessment, so it doesn't have to be a final exam. Yvette Ingram asked if this could be an undergrad specific policy as it doesn't fit into all graduate courses. Heather Feldhaus, (Dean of Graduate Education, CU) responded to Yvette that grad would like to develop their own policy on this. Kristin Vincenzes, (Professor MS Mental Health Counseling, CU) asked if assigned or exam no longer need to be approved by department and must be given in week 15 of the semester? Brooke Harlowe answered yes to both. Eric Hawrelak raised why the minimum of 20% of the final grade and maximum of 40% was left out? Brooke Harlowe responded that she received a lot of conflicting responses from faculty on it. Adrienne McEvoy, (Associate Professor Philosophy, CU) stated that Article 2 confirms there is a minimum of 25%. Rodger Benefiel, (Associate Professor Criminal Justice, CU) suggested building in an exemption or allow departments to decide per circumstance.

- C. Academic Major and Minor Policy: Tess Fosse explained this is another walk over policy which describes what/when a student should declare their major/minor.
- D. Add/Drop Policy: Tess Foss, policy defining when you can add and drop a class.
- E. Attendance Policy: Tess Fosse, said that this is a new policy going over expectation of attendance for class.
- F. Commencement Participation Policy: Tess Fosse explained that this policy explains who is allowed to actually partake in commencement and walk across the stage.
- G. Grade Appeal Policy: Brooke Harlowe stated that this separates out grade appeal from grievance process.
- H. Pass/Fail Policy: Tess Fosse said that this policy explains when a student can change to a pass/fail course and how many are allowed.
- I. Student Disruptive Behavior Policy: Karen Hammen, (Associate Professor, Tutorial services, CU) stated that this is for what is acceptable behavior in the classroom while being inclusive to all learning environments. George Rusczyk, (Dean of Students, CU) clarified that the code of conduct applies everywhere, but this policy gives more structure and expectations within the classroom.
- J. Undergraduate Student Academic and Dismissal Policy: Tess Fosse said this policy explains the conditions in which students can be dismissed.
- K. ADA Policy: Christopher Cummings stated this is driven mostly by federal law and has been vetted by legal. Provisions of accommodations.
- L. Academic Grievance Policy: Brooke Harlowe explained this is the process for students if there is an academic injustice.
- M. Constitutional Amendments not on Consent Agenda: Brooke Harlowe expressed concern that the amendments are hard to follow in current format and asked if they could be posted in an alternative format. Rick Goulet added that all 3 local assemblies will need to review and vote on constitutional amendments.
